

Fans across the country are still shocked by the change that has come over Mr. Wrestling II.

Last month we reported how

Mr. Wrestling II, who for years was among the most popular men in the sport, has stunned the wrestling community with his change in attitude. Wrestling II and Magrum T.A. have entered into an uply feud.

Junkyard Dog offered Magnum T.A. a shot at his North American heavyweight title. But Magnum's coach, Wrestling II, protested, saying that the only reason JYD offered T.A. the match was because he knew he could easily beat him.

Now the student is testing his skills against his former coach, as T.A. feuds with Wrestling II with the North American title at stake.

"I taught thus punk everything he knows," Wrestling II told us recently, "and he's well aware of it. He owes everything to me. If not for my training and knowledge, he wouldn't be half the success he is today. I know that, he knows that, and the fans know that. But everyone is trying to tell me I'm wrong in this situation. I'm not wrong, and I'll prove it to that punk. I may have taught him all he knows, but I didn't teach him all I know! He's still got a few things left to learn. He's got to be put in his place."

Ivan Koloff regained the Mid-Atlantic title from Angelo Mosca Iv. in Wrestling II demanded a title match of his own, and, on March 12 in The Municipal Auditorium in New Orleans, Wrestling II used a loaded kneepad to bear JYD for the title Charlotte, North Carolina, on March 18 ... Bobby Heenan is managing Harley Race for several matches in the St. Louis area ... Tully Blanchard, managed in the Mid-Atlantic area by Paul Jones, is seeking a match with WWC Universal heavyweight champion Carles Colon ... Sir Oliver Humperdink is reportedly negotiating with James J. Dillon regarding a business partnership; Humperdink has also been spotted in a Detroit gym with George "The Animal" Steele.

In last month's issue of The Wrestler, we printed a story entitled, "Introducing Brickhouse Brown." Who would have thought that in such a short time Brown would be the center of controversy in the Mid-Atlantic area? Here's how it happened:

Brown was wrestling Emie Ladd in a televised match. Rufus R. Jones was in Brown's corner, and called him out of the ring several times during the match to coach him. Brown was doing well, but the size differential between himself (5'10", 225 pounds) and Ladd (6'10", 354 pounds) was too great to overcome. At one point, Jones came up to the ring to argue with unsuccessful attempts to ram the other's head into the ringpost,

At the 15-minute mark, Duggan whipped Rhodes into the referee, who fell out of the ring. Sullivan came to ringside and handed Duggan a pair of brass knuckles. Rhodes saw Duggan receive the object and grabbed his bullrope. Before Duggan could use his weapon, Rhodes hit him with the metal cowbell tied to the rope.

When the referee reentered the ring, his saw Duggan bleeding from the forehead and awarded the match to The Dream.

In the bullrope match against Sullivan, Rhodes was overwhelming. Sullivan, it should be remembered, had thrown ink into the eyes of Dusty's sister a short time ago, and The Dream was more intent on hurting the Satan-worshipper Sullivan than pinning him. The two battled to the five-minute time limit, but Rhodes had left Sullivan a beaten man.

Entrants included The Fabulous Blonds-Ken Timbs and Eric Embry, Killer Brooks, Sheepherder Butch Miller, Bobby Jaggers, Exotic Adrian Street, Al Perez, Manny Fernandez, Relampago Leon, and Henry Garcia.

Q: "I have a question for the 'King of Wrestling,' Jerry Lawler: You've been wrestling in a lot of tag team matches with Jos LeDuc. Does this mean that you're not going to challenge for the AWA World championship anymore?"—Quentin Nillson, Louisville, KY

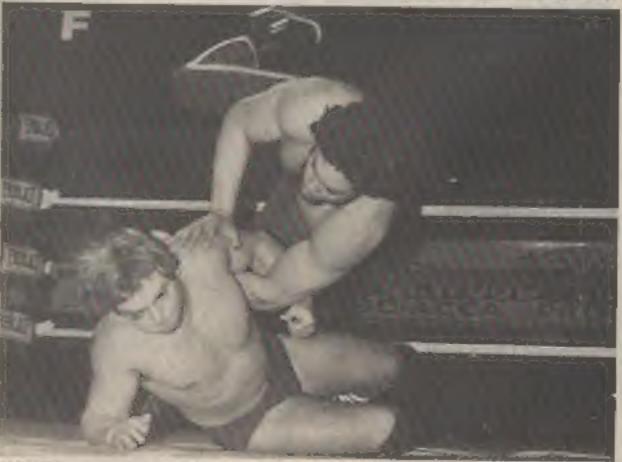

A: "Quentin, I will never stop trying to win that AWA World "Right now, however, my friend Jos LeDuc and I hold the AWA Mid-Southern tag team championship. I have to concentrate on defending this title right now, but I'm still wrestling single matches and holding on to my ranking in the AWA. I'm not giving up on the World title, not at all."

Q: "My question is for Eddie Gilbert: Will he be coming back to the WWF? I think he should have gotten a title shot in the WWF, and I really don't blame him for leaving."—Sandi Reisling, Cambridge, MA

A: "That's exactly why I left, Sandi," Gilbert said. "I was made a lot of promises, I was promised another shot at both the junior heavyweight and Intercontinental titles. I never got either one. I had to think about my career. I'm back in the Mid-Southern area and I think this is the place I will get the most attention, the good matches, and, eventually, a title."

Q: For Tommy Rogers: "Do you ever think about how much you could hurt yourself when you jump off the top rope to do the Rogers rocket"?"—Julie Nichols, North Bergen, NJ

A: "Yes, Julie, I think about the danger, and knowing that it's there makes me a more careful wrestler. Sometimes, you have to weigh the pluses and minuses. There's an element of danger, but if you set your opponent up properly and don't (Continued on page 54)

Thumbo Up the noteworthy and damn those who violate the honor of wresting. The preisoworthy receive a Thumba Up, the diagracular marked with a Thumba Down. Here is this month's roll of honor and shame.

THUMBS UP to Playboy Buddy Rose: If any tans still maintained doubts about Rose's conversion to the scientific side of wrestling, they should doubt no longer. In addition to receiving cheers from fans throughout the Pacific Northwest, Rose was recently voted the Most Popular Wrestler in that area. As Rose's feuds with Ed Wiskowski, Rip Oliver, The Assassin, and others intensity, we feel confident that his position as a fan favorite will grow even stronger. We salute Playboy Buddy Rose with an admiration of his new style in the ring, and his acceptance by the fans out of the ring.

THUMBS UP to Rufus R. Jones: Jones has decided to share his vast knowledge of professional wrestling with an up-and-coming young athlete. Brickhouse Brown. Brown, the subject of the "Introducing" feature in last month's issue, was advised by Jones for a match against the giant veteran Ernie Ladd. Despite his size, the 5 10°, 225-pound Brown deleated the former football star by using his quickness and agility. Brown is a wrestler who is headed for stardom in the sport, and with Jones' expenence and skill behind him, it seems as if he'll soon reach that goal.

THUMBS UP to Tommy Rich: Rich, who has returned to wrestling as one of the new "Fabulous Ones" with Eddie Gilbert, has made the adjustment to tag team wrestling very easily. It was feared when Rich was picked by Jackie Fargo to team with Gilbert that he was too accustomed to wrestling in singles matches to make a successful tag team partner. With intensive training and strategy sessions, however, Gilbert and Rich have quickly become a fine team. Rich has also stepped up his personal training regimen, which has helped his individual performance, and for these things he should be commended.

THUMBS UP to Jerry Lawler: Lawler set his personal biases aside in order to keep the Mid-Southern tag team belts in the Mid-Southern area. When those belts were held by Elijah Akeem and Kareem Muhammad, there was a threat that they might be taken to Florida by the champions' financial backer, James J. Dillon. Dillon said he would take the belts out of the Mid-Southen area unless Lawler teamed with Jos LeDuc, who is managed by Lawler's archrival, Jimmy Hart. Lawler put his hatred and prejudices aside to team with LeDuc. Lawler and LeDuc won the belts and successfully kept them in the Mid-Southern area, where they belong.

Thumbs Down

THUMBS DOWN to Dino Bravo. Canadian International heavyweight champion Bravo has been the center of controversy lately. When Bravo's frequent tag team partner Rick Martel suggested that the two men wrestle each other, Bravo reacted with an attitude that was who y unexpected. While Martel intended for the match to be a classic scientific encounter, Bravo felt compelled to take an extremely aggressive stance in the matchup. This in turn raises greater questions about Bravo's dedication to the scientific method of wrestling. We are disappointed by Bravo's reaction to Martel's challenge, and we sincerely hope that he is not considering a complete conversion to rulebreaking.

THUMBS DOWN to The Spoiler: The veteran masked wrestler recently revealed the identity of Sweet Brown Sugar as Skip Young, hoping to damage his rival's career. The Spoiler didn't realize was that Young has never tried to hide his identity with the mask; he only wears it because he likes to. If asked, he'll tell you exactly who he is. Still, Spoiler did try to hurt Young, and now he is claiming that any masked wrestler who crosses his path will have his identity revealed. We condemn The Spoiler for his attempts to didermine the basic precepts and traditions of masked wrestling.

THUMBS DOWN to Sgt. Staughter. While Staughter has got to be admired for his defense of patriotism in the face of The Iron Sheik's insults of the United States (indeed, receiving a "thumbs up" for that reason in last month's issue), we feel compelled to point out that there are two problems with Staughter's campaign: First, he has combined to wrestle in tag team matches, both conventional and six-man, with such partners as Tiger Chung Lee and Mr. Fuji. Second, Staughter has become single-mindedly obsessed with his campaign against The Iron Sheik, and we question whether this may be hurting his training regimen and his career as a whole.

THUMBS DOWN to Terry Taylor Taylor, who entered the Mid-South area and immediately began feuding with "The Russian Connection" of Nikolai Volkoff and Krusher Khrushchev, has now gone just a bit too far. With assistance from "The Rock in Roll Express," Taylor attacked Khrushchev and painted him red. First of all Taylor should have had better sense and resisted sinking to the rulebreakers' level with the sneak-attack. Secondly, Taylor's preoccupation with the Russians has stunted his progress toward the North American championship. Taylor should forget about revenge and redirect his energies toward that title.

Paul Ellering's legs become rubbery after he is slugged by the burty Anderson. Although Anderson has proven to be an objective announcer, he does not hide his feelings about Precious Paul.

- Q: I guess the first thing to ask you about, Ole, would be Precious Paul Ellering. He's a man who really gets under your skin, and I wonder if you could explain to our readers why that is so.
- A: Well, it's quite simple. Paul Ellering is a coward. A bigmouth. A braggart. He's afraid to stand up for what he says, which isn't much to begin with,
  and he lets other people fight bis battles for him. He's like the pesky kid brother who makes trouble, then starts whining when he's disciplined for it. All I ever hear Ellering do is whine and, quite frankly,
  I'm getting sick of it.
- Q: Well, you've sort of made Ellering your personal campaign lately, and I'm wondering . . .
- A: A personal campaign? Perhaps.

  But Precious Paul Ellering is the kind of a man—and I use that term with a great degree of hesitation—who really gets under my skin. I despise him for the reasons I mentioned above, particularly the fact that he instigates trouble and then lets people like Jake Roberts, The Road Warriors, and The Spoiler do his dirty work. And yes, I admit it, I enjoy seeing Ellering receive his just due.

OLE ANDERSON

OLE ANDERSON HAS long had a reputation as one of the most aggressive and successful tag team wrestlers in the sport's history. He has held a share of the NWA World tag team title several times, both with his brother Gene and with Stan Hansen as partner. But Anderson's most recent success has come about not as the result of his activities in the ring, but through his activities behind the microphone. As color commentator for World Championship Wrestling alongside play-by-play man Gordon Solie, Anderson has carned a reputation for fairness and objectivity. In his new role, Anderson possesses a rare perspective on the events occurring in the Georgia area. Associate Editor Craig Peters recently discussed some of these events with Anderson.

Ellering has words with Anderson on the set of World Championship Wrestling, as Gordon Solie mediates, in perhaps his most despicable act to date, Ellering pains Jay Youngblood as he is held against the ropes by The Road Warriors (below).

Q: Some people have speculated that you might come back out of your semiretirement to team regularly with Stan Hansen and make a run at The Road Warriors' National tag team title.

- A: You know, I receive a lot of mail—and I enjoy hearing from the fans all the time—and I must say that a lot of people have asked me about that possibility. I don't know. I haven't really discussed that thoroughly with Stan, so I don't know. Me and Stan against The Road Warriors? It's an interesting idea, that's for sure, but the question is whether it's an idea whose time has come.
- Q: There have been a lot of interesting developments in the area, and unfortunately we don't have time to discuss each one in depth, but I'd like to get your reactions, at least briefly, about some of the people involved in those developments.

A: All right, shoot.

Q: Okay, Let's start off with Jay Youngblood.

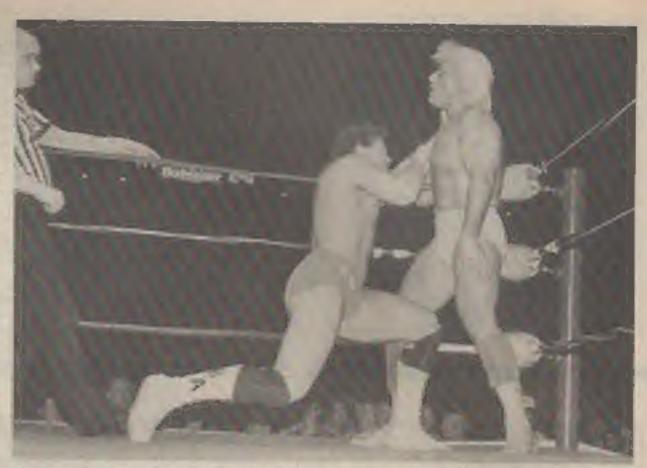

A: You know, I have the utmost respect for a man like Jay Youngblood. He wrestles hard, he's held a share of the NWA World tag championship several times along with Rick Steamboat. He's a hell of a kid, with a hell of a record, and he's improving all the time. But again, we're getting back to Ellering, because it was he who took white paint and painted Juy's face and chest while The Road Warriors held him against the ropes, It was a humiliating experience for Jay. and I'd like to see Ellering pay for that . . . among many other things.

Q: Brad Armstrong.

A: Well, Brad is of course the National heavyweight champion, and a lot of people think that the way he won the title from Ted DiBiase was a fluke and a cheat to DiBiase. But I have to say that Brad has really grown into the title, he's made the championship his own, and that's not an easy thing for a young man of his age to be able to do. You've got to admire him for that.

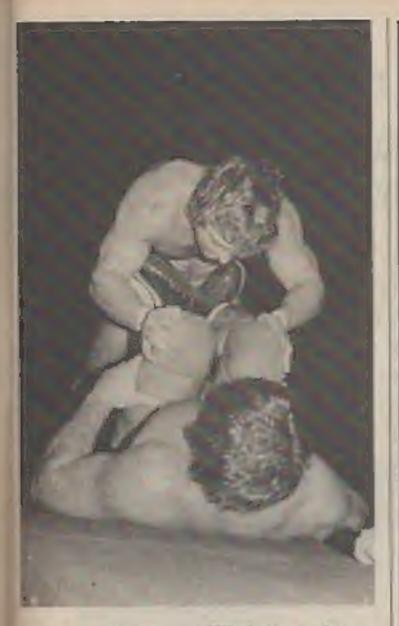

Q: Sweet Brown Sugar

A: You mean, of course, Skip Young. I think the way Skip stood up to The Spoiler's challenge was excellent. Skip is a terrific wrestler, a terrific person, an excellent aerial wrestler, and an all-round excellent athlete. Whether you call him Sweet Brown Sugar or Skip Young, he's still the same great athlete. And, once again, you can't get away from mentioning Precious Paul Ellering, because it was at Ellering's insistence that The Spoiler made the challenge to Skip.

Q: Les Thornton and Tommy Rogers.

- A: Of course, Tommy and Les have been engaged in a tug-of-war battle for the NWA Junior heavyweight championship, and these have been some classic scientific matches. Les is a legend in his own time, and has done a lot to bring greater recognition to the junior heavyweights. And Tommy has got a future ahead of him that should take him right to the top.
- Q: One final question before we end this interview. How does it feel working alongside Gordon Solie ever week?
- A: Gordon is the best. That's alithere is to it, and I'm constantly amazed at his insights and perceptions into the sport. I consider myself lucky to be able to work with him, and I find that each week I learn something new about broadcasting—and about wrestling.

DESCRIPANTABLE CARDINA

'You can tell just by looking at Butch Reed that he taxes his career senously He spends a great deal of his time in the gym training, and I ve read where he's taken on a nutritionist. He's taking care of his body, because he knows that without it, he loses everything. What I don't understand is why he became a rulebreaker it guess we all go through changes, but that was one he could have done without.

VERNE GAGNE

What I think is so unique about Reed is that despite his size, he's incredibly agrie-He droplucks, he can do the flying bodypress and the flying shoulder tackle When you combine his size, his power and his aenal ability, you have one extremely lough wrestler And now that Skandor Akbar is managing him, he'll be tougher than ever I don't agree with Reed's current wrestling philosophy but you can't doubt his abilities."

GENE KINISKI

"hen Butch Reed decided to become a man, when he decided to forget about the fans and the rulebook, he became 10 times the wrestler he used to be. Now that ha's on the right track, he can go all the way to the top. He has Skandor Akbar in his corner, who's a great wrestling strategist. The General knows how to utiwas all of Reed's power. Together, I think they can beat Ric Flair and take the NWA World title

 igged Canadia: -vnc and in the late

BUDDY ROGERS

"I'm very disappointed in Butch Reed. He was a fine wrestler and an honorable man, but then he decided to become a rulebreaker. I no longer have any respect. for him. I could understand it if he needed the illegal tactics to win matches, but he has enough power and talent to win without breaking the rules. It's a loss. a great loss for the sport of wrestling. Maybe he'll come to his senses, I hope

LOU THESZ

Butch Reed has a me horedients needed to become the times. He excelled in for but and has a great haterai athletic athling is ust had to stop thinking football and start thinking wresting. He made the switch pretty well or later

EDDIE GRAHAM

I've seen Butch Reed progress from the time he was wrestling here in Florida in 1982 to now. I just recently caught a match of his in Dallas. He's a very different man. He seems angry. His style is vicious, and viciousness is not something. What I think happened is that somewhere that can be taught, not even by a man along the line he got insecure about his like Gen. Skandor Akbar I keep wonderability and that's why he turned rule-ing what happened to Butch Reed. What breaker I think he I switch back sooner could make a man change so drastically?

Jimmy Valiant's American Dream Comes True:

ANGING UP THE PHONE, a jubilant Jim Valiant could't believe his luck. The man he'd always wanted to be his tag team partner had found a way to make it happen in a week, Dusty Rhodes would be coming to the Mid-Atlantic area to join Valiant in his war against The Assassins.

t was Vallant's American Dream come true at last. He'd been trying for months to get the right combination to batter The Assassins into submission. He dilteamed with such top wrest ers as Dory Funk Jr. Bugsy McGraw Jay Youngblood, and Rick Steamboat. All these athletes had joined what Valiant likes to call his 'Boogle Woogle Brigade," tag team partners dedicated to the overthrow of The Assassins and their manager, Paul Jones, Asanyone can see from the above list, Valiant had tried all manner of combinations. You can't get a wider variety of tag team partners; no two men are more opposite than Rick Steamboat and Bugsy Mc-Graw. Yet Val ant st I hadn't found the perfect tag team partner Now with the arriva of Dusty Rhodes, he had real hopes 'This means the end of The Assassins." Valiant announced optimistically. "The end of their reign of terror! "ve battered and blooded them with my other partners. Daddy now it's time for me to finish them. Even if Paul Jones thes to throw his two cents in, they won't stand a chance. Rhodes is the partner live always wanted and needed When he agreed to join me, it was the best thing that ever happened to Mid-Atlantic wrestling.

RIC FLAIR'S LIMOUSINE is both spanous and luxurious. The large seating area has room enough for six people, and includes a telephone, a color television, a video cassette recorder, and a bar.

On this particular occasion, it was only Flair and myself who were enjoying the comforts of success as his himo cruised down Marietta Street in downtown Atlanta.

We crossed Spring Street and, passing the Techwood Viaduct, paused in front of The Omni complex

This is it, Peter, The Omin,' Flair said with more than a hint of reverence in his voice. "You know, every time I pause in front of The Omin, I think about all the times I've defended the World title here. Greatness, Peter, greatness in professional wrestling. That's what the NWA World belt stands for, and that's what I stand for

"The NWA World title is the most prestigious championship in this sport," Flair continued, "and wrestlers from all over the world have come here, to The Omni, to try and win the title from me. This arena has hosted some classic matches, there's no question about that."

A brief silence was followed by Flair's indication to the driver to move on. We continued what amounted to a tour of Atlanta with Flair aring as tour guide.

Ric Flair has battled the greatest names in wresting today but he has never had the opportunity to show off his skills to the New York area tans. The Nature Boy enjoys advantages over former NWA tillists Harley Race (above, and Dory Funk Jr. (bottom).

Flair broke into a wide grin "Now you're talking, daddy, that's the city to end all cines," Flair said. "And let me tell you, I can't wait. It's been too long since I've been able to visit New York, and I've never been able to wrestle there. I get a lot of fan mail from people in New York, New Jersey, and thereabouts, but this'll be the first time they'll be able to lay eyes on the greatest wrestler in the world today, the pinnacle of excellence, the NWA World champion. It's going to be excrimg!"

Flair was referring to the first card of NWA wrestling to be held in the New York metropolitan area in 20 years. It will take place on May 29 in the Brendan Byrne Arena in New Jersey's Meadowlands sports complex, just a few miles from midrown Manhattan

"Oh yeah, I'm ready, I'm ready for this one like I've been ready for no other match in a long time," Flair said. The limousine continued to cruise the streets of downtown Atlanta, but in his own mind, Flair was already strutting down Broadway!

Driving down Peachtree Street, we passed the Hyatt Regency Hotel. "Great restaurant here called 'Clock Of 5's'," Flan said. "The duckling is sensational And there's another one in the hotel called 'Hugo's." Great French food."

Tommy Rich Is Back! AND HE OWES IT TO THE FANS

Tommy Rich was faced with the most difficult decision of his life. He knew there were legal means to bring him back into wrestling, but he wasn't sure if he could justify his return morally. Ultimately, the fans would cast the deciding vote

front of his desk. Being one of the most important figures in the Mid-Southern wrestling area, this man was used to getting his way But sitting in front of him was Tommy Rich A stuuborn Tommy Rich So far the commissioner had tried ogic, shouting, and pleading the couldn't get Rich to change his mind.

'Doesn't it bother you that the fans are so unhappy?' the commissioner asked ''Doesn't it hurt you to know how much you're hurting them?'

Rich turned away before saying 'Of course it hurts. The greatest thril of my life is to hear the fans cheering for me live read their let ters. Every time someone asks me to return to wrestling it eats away at me. Wish there was something I could do."

"There is!" the commissioner shouted "Contracts are made to be broken. You could drive a truck through the loopholes in this one. I have a dozen lawyers ready to prove the contract violates laws up and down the line. As a concerned citizen, you should want to break this contract.

Rich said softly, "I signed the contract in good faith I knew what I was doing. The loser of my match against DiB ase would leave wrestling forever. I entered into the agreement in good faith. I never welched in my life. I don't care if it violates some obscure law. The spirit of the agreement still holds, won't return to wrestling.

To many, what Rich was saying would seem hypochtical. Although it was never proven, most people be reve that after Tommy lost the loser eave wresting match against Ted DiBiase in Atlanta, he had come back to wrestle under a mask as Mr. R. One source, a close observer of the Georgia scene who asked to remain anonymous, said that Tommy had had second thoughts about using the Mr. R identity and he was being sincere in now saying that he would honor the terms of his match with DiBiase

'Tommy, you're just being selfish" the commissioner snarted "You and your high-and-mighty principles. It doesn't matter to you how many people are hurt, as long as you can maintain that nobie posture. Think about this for a minute. There are times when things aren't simply right or wrong There are times when tough choices have to be made, when the common good in the long run has to be considered. Maybe some principles have to be bent, maybe some compromises have to be made. And just maybe somebody's reputation has to get a little tar nished. Think about those letters from the fans. Think about their petitions begging you to o me back. Think about what you me. to them, how few heroes pec. have in their lives these days. And think about wrestling, whether or not it will be a better sport because you're in it. Get off the pedasta-Tommy, and start thinking about someone else

Rich was visibly upset by the time the commissioner had insteed his speech. Tommy's jan worked funously, as if he were the to say something. When the words wouldn't come, the young grappier stood up and stormed but of the more

That night Tommy remad the letters and petroons asking him to come back to wresting. His mind filed with the faces of fans he remembered cheering him to victory it's a gift. Tommy realized, to make people happier in this world. He was biessed with that gift. Did he have the right not to use that gift as it was intended? As he gianced him again over the letters, he hindered

He then called up friends. As Brad Armstrong recalls, "It wasn't really a conversation, I was on the phone for half an hour and al. I got to say was hello and goodbye. Tommy just spilled his guts, arguing with himself. Did he have the right to return? Did he have the right not to return? I tried to say something but couldn't get a word in edgewise. He was the most tormented man I ever heard. When our conversation was over, it was impossible to tell what he decided. All I knew was that if he did return, it would definitely be in the Mid-ones instantly. They naturally move with more confidence grace, and physica assurance Born with great instincts, they are driven to forge their grits into an art form. This is true in all walks of life. They establish themselves early and never disappoint

Another trait they all have in common is their inability to be satisfied. Forced by fate to strive for an impossible perfection, they constantly strive to become better. Even after their greatest accomplishments, the best will always think about what went wrong and how to prevent it from happening again. They are in a constant war with human fallibility. It is a war they know they can't win, but it is the only one worth fighting.

Mike Von Ench, the youngest of the Von Ench brothers, has been waging that war ever since he was a child. Brother Kerry recalls, "When we'd see our dad Fritz Von Ench, wrestle, the older brothers were enthralled by his abilities. Not Mike. He couldn't have been 10 the first time he started rattling off Dad's mistakes after a match. At first Dad thought it was cute. The cuteness wore off when he realzed Mike was right. He couldn't get angry at Mike, but it must be hard to have a little kid correctly lecture you about your mistakes. Dad handled it real well. He discussed small group of men deserving to be called superstars. Wrestling journalists don't dub someone a superstar easily; they almost never consider one as young as Mike to fall into that category. But Mike seemingly from the age of 10, has always been special. The only person who doesn't believe Mike Von Erich to be a superstar is Mike Von Ench himself

- Billy Jack's Own Story -

Part II

"HOW PROFESSIONAL WRESTLING SAVED MY LIFE!"

In part one of this story, last month, Billy Jack wrote about his youth. About his close-knit family About his determination to become a boxer. Everything in Billy Jack's life was going so smoothly

Then tragedy struck: Billy's uncle, who lived with his family all his life, died in April 1969 when Billy was 15. His mother died less than two weeks later

Soon after, Billy quit high school, quit boxing, and began hanging around the wrong people. His father felt a stint in the Arms might help, but Billy went AWOL soon after signing up.

Billy's father become blind in the left eye and then the right, and Billy took a job as a janutor. Billy began gambling heavily and getting into streetfights. One particular fight led to an appearance before a judge, who found him guity of first-degree assault charges.

Billy received a five year jail sentence

By Billy Jack

SPENT NEARLY two years in prison, and all I did was lift weights It was in experience man't

At the age of 26 I was paroled on a YMCA work release program. My family greeted me with love. My dad was on retire that meaning, and my brothers had jobs. B. I was just nothing as far as I was concerned.

This is the continuation of a remarkable tale of personal strength. In it, you'll meet Billy Jack as he was before he entered professional wrestling: a misguided youth, a victim of incredible tragedy, a man who lacked self-confidence—and an incredible athlete who found his true calling in life

With his withingness to take chances and his enormous strength. Billy Jack was a natural for pro-wrestling. Billy springs toward Kendo Nagasak, from the tumbuckies, above, and hits the Japanese star with an elbowsmash (below). Hacksaw Duggan will be the victim of a thudding Billy Jack bodyslam (for right).

Then one day I sat down and talked to myself I said: "Start thinking big."

I started playing racquetball, and I continued to lift weights. At the age of 27 I won the YMCA Open Racquetball tournament. That was excurned for the

Then, one Saturday night, I was watching a professional wrestling program on television. Our family aways used to watch wrestling together, and while I was watching the show, something in my hear cheked

I wanted to become a pro-wresting I know that I could become a siccess it I gase it event up. I had

My plan was first to pump up on the weights. I entered the Mr Pacific Coast bodybuilding competition, and it was there that I met Don Owen, the promoter in Portland, Oregon. I talked to him and very sincerely said, "Mr. Owen, I want to become a professional wrestler. Can you help me?"

The Mr. Pacific Coast competition was time months away, and I trained four hours each day, six days a work I never missed a workout. I lived in the gym. People saw the results. They saw that I wanted to win, and I knew that I wanted to win. For the first time in my life since I was 13, I knew what I wanted. I was a little older now, and smarter than ever

The contest was held in March

Duggan complains that Billy Jack's chinlock is a choice but it obviously is not above. Billy is in marvelous shape and works hard to stay that way. He can often be found in Figurea health food stores (right).

1982, and I won. Half of my dream was fulfilled. The next Saturday I went to the arena and got to talk with Don Owen again. He liked my attitude and felt I had a good wrestling physique

"I'm a good judge of character," he said. "I think I'll give you a chance, but understand, you're the only one I've ever done this for "

Don sent me to Caigary, Aiberia, Canada, to start training with Stu Hart. I had $300 to my name when I got there.

There were a lot of big, tough gays there. They stretched my abilities from here to Sunday. I never cried or gave in, though there were times I wanted to—I knew that this was my last chance in life

After two weeks, Stu took me aside and told me I was going to make it. I was 6'3", 255 pounds tock hard, and ready. I had my first match in August 1982, against the rugged top contender. Duke Myers, and wrestled him to a 15minute draw

After two more months, I went to Portland, and it was like a dream come true Standing in that ring was just amazing! My entire tamily was there, and my dad was so proud. All the love and dicams that I had searched for came at 29 years of age Professional wresting is the best thing that ever happened to me and my family. My dad went to the matches with me, and on one tele vision interview, my dad was there and we embraced and expressed cur love the case when My big her never missed one of my matches in Portland.

I teamed with Stan Stasiak, and we won the Pacific Northwest tag team hels one month after my Jeeu I won the Pacific Northwest heavyweight title from The Dynamite Kid and held it until I left for Flonda to see Dusty Rhodes

The reason I left Portland to meet Dusty and I want all my Pacific Northwest fans to under stand this—is because he comes from the streets, too. He knows what it's like to be down to the very bottom of ble, to have a dream, and to finally achieve it

I think big. I want to be world champion some day. Dusty made it by raw determination, blood, and guts. So far, since Pv. come to Florida, Dusty has helped me in so many ways. I love I woman so much

Now I hope the readers of this magazine, all my fans everywhere, can understand and see why wrestling has brought my life and my family back together again.

It's the toughest profession in the world, but like they say, "no pain, no gain." And I want the people to know where I'm coming from —my family already knows and that's why I wrote this story

As long as I'm in professional wresting, I'll always remain Buly Jack—"The People's Choice!"

GORGEOUS GEORGE VS. THE DESTROYER

AND JIM GARVIN thinks he's gorgeous?

No Gorgeous George was the original king of conceit its common knowledge that Muhammad All patterned his fast-talking braggart sivile after that of Gorgeous George Perhime in the ring valets bowing and scraping at his feet George was the onginal. Since his heyday he's been iften mutated, but never duplicated.

spised everything that George represented

Their differences finally reached a head in November 1962 in Los Angeles. It was a mask vs. hair match, and the fever that built up among the fans was incredible After all, who could imagine Gorgeous George without those blond tresses caressing his shoulders? And what would happen to The Destroyer's career after the mystery of his identity was solved?

With so much at stake in this match, both wrestlers vowed to bat the until they dropped from exhaustion. Referee Johnny "Red Shoes" lugan was given the assignment of trying to maintain control

This match was one of the classics. The Destroyer focused his attack on George's left arm throughout, and the strategy worked to perfection.

When they raised The Destroyer's hands in victory, the crowd went wild with anticipation—Goraeous George was going to lose his gorgeous hair

I remember sitting in the cheap seats in the Olympic Auditorium and thinking, "Oh hell, it's going to be like a battle royal when they try and cut off George's hair. This is going to be a mess!

I remember seeing two men in suits and ties and pencil-thin moustaches—damned if I can remember who they were—climb into the ring bearing combs, scissors, razors, and a bag to hold the hair

And I remember seeing Gorgeous George just sitting there—doing nothing! I was amazed! He didn't flinch an inch. I was certain that he was going to go crazy any minute. He didn't. He just sat there and let them cut his hair. Then he sat there and let them shave him baid

Go figure it. I would have bet the whole paycheck that he wouldn't have let them touch him. But he did, and they did, and the next thing I knew Gorgeous George was stick as a cue bal.

And this was the man who primped and preened, who had his valets spritz the ring with perfume so he didn't have to smell the sweat and stench from the previous match. The man who was fussy about himself beyond all reasonable besef

And he let them cut his hair without so much as a gripe or a growl. It was probably Gorgeous George's most uncharacteristic moment ever in professional wresting!

kuller Brooks won the Texas brawl in Temple and the $5,000 first prize, but he paid with his blood

Eight out of the 10 participants were bleeding by the end of the match. The fast two men in the ring were Brooks and Perez Brooks used a sharp metal object to cut Perez' forehead. After further abuse, Perez dropped to the mat and Brooks was handed the $5,000 winner's purse.

In other bouts, Brooks defeated Garcia... Perez and Jaggers defeated The Fabulous Bionds Street defeated Leon... Fernan dez and Miller were both disqualified

Memphis, Tennessee (Comespondent—Chuck Morns): Jackie Fargo's new Fabulous Ones, Tommy "Widfire" Rich and Eddie Gilbert, battled Jimmy Hart's infamous Moondogs in the main event at the Mid-South Coliseum

The duo of Rich and G bert started strongly, flustering Rex and Spot with fast-paced scientific maneuvers. Soon, Hart became desperate, He gave Spot one of the huge bones the team carnes into the ring. Spot swung wildly at Gilbert and missed. As Rich battled Rex outside the ring, Hart thed to run into the ring at Gilbert, but Gilbert met him at the ropes and bodystammed the manager.

Rich kept Rex outside the ring as Gilbert executed the atomic spinecrusher on Spot, gaining a very popular—and very fabulous—victory

Lafayette, Louisiana (Correspondent—Daniel Graffeo): Nikolas Voikoff squared off against Terry Taylor in a Russian death match, in which the wrestlers were connected at the neck by a 10-foot rope. The winner had to drag the loser to all four corners of the ring to claim the victory.

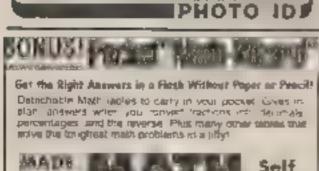

As the fans chanted 'U-S-A." the smaller Taylor managed to pull the 345-pound Volkoff to the canvas. Taylor began to drag Volkoff around the ring and had touched three corners before Volkoff rose to his feet and began to choke his opponent Volkoff pounded Taylor with fists and kicks and then began to drag Taylor around the ring.

With two turnbuckles to go, Taylor, hearing the crowd's chants, summoned up a reserve of strength and battled back. Before long, he had Volkoff weak-ened. Taylor then trumphantly paraded around the ring, dragging Volkoff behind him as he touched all four corners for the victory rush things, you eliminate a lot of the danger"

- Q: I have a question for Greq, Valentine: The last time you were in the WWF, The Grand Wizard was your manager Since the Wizard has passed away, you've taken on Capt Lou Albano to masage you in the WWF. Are there any changes in your wrestling style because of the switch?"-Stan Hayster, Pawtucket, RI
- A: Valentine replied: "First, let me say this, because I haven't had the chance before. The Grand Wizard was a brilliant man, a manager beyond compare, and a good friend. I miss him very much. Now, about Capt. Lou: The Captain used to be a wrestler, whereas the Wizard wasn't. He has a different perspective on a lot of things Lou concentrates on wrestling more, where the Wiz concentrated more on the business end. I don't mean to say that Capt. Lou isn't a fine businessman, because he is. As far as wrestling goes, the Captain leaves his imprint on every wrestler's style, and I'm sure he will with me, also. Together, I think we'll make a lot of money. and eventually beat Husk Hogan. I think the WWF title bett would look really fine around my waist
- Q: For Rick Steamboat: "You said that the reason you are coming out of retirement is to wrestle Ric Flair for the NWA World trie. If you beat Flair, what will you do? Will you defend the title, or will you retire again?"-Frank Sedgwick, Coiumbia, SC
- A: "Winning the NWA World title is the goal of every wrestler,

Rick Steamboat is coming out of retirement for another chance to wrestle NWA World heavyweight champion Ric Flair and winning it might just be enough," Steamboat replied, "I might beat Ric and retre the title. Then again only God knows what I will do once I have that belt around my waist It's hard to say until you're there I have to win the title first, though, and im training real hard right now in preparation I guess what I'm saying. Frank, is that you'll know what I'm gonna do when I know."

- Q: "I have a guestion for Gorgeous Jim Garvin When are you going to give up trying to outsmart Sunshine? She is obviously a lot more interigent that you are."—Ozzie George. Corpus Christi, TX
- A: "Bust another stupid fan," Garvin replied. 'As far as I'm cerned, these idiot fans and that bimbo blonde deserve each other. They communicate on the same level, below sea evel, that is, It's really pretty sad, I think, that anyone really thinks that Sunshine is smart. I call her I.Q., but not because hers is high I.Q. stands for ldlot Queen. She's their leader. I guess that makes Chris Adams the king, huh?"

O: "My question is for Nikola. Volkoff Listen Volkoff, if you hate the United States so much, why don't you just leave and go back to Russia? We don't want you here,"—Janice Dawson, New Orleans

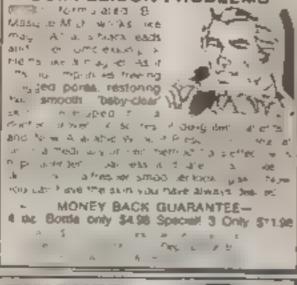

A: "There are reasons for my stay in this disgusting capitalist country of yours," Volkoff said. It is my duty to show all Americans that the people of the Soviet Union are far superior to them, in every facet of life. We are more intelligent, we are stronger, and we are more loyal. We are better in every way.

Nikolai Volkoff says that it is his duty as a Russian to show the Americans how interior they area.

because of the strong personal loyalty we have to our government, which will provide for all of our needs. The American system is weak. Americans are weak. The Soviet Union is strong and will always be the strongest of the two, and the sooner you Americans realize that the better off you will be."

As for the rulebreaking tag team, they never wrestled with more ferocity. They had been trained well by Jones and were cruelly executing every diffy trick their manager taught them

RIC FLAIR

Flair enjoys the predicament in which he has Tommy Rich. Flair's figure-four legiock is among the best in pro wrestling history, and there's nothing he'd enjoy more than to clamp that hold on his challenger at the Meadowlands Arena in New Jersey.

tinued, "everyone wants to be the man to challenge for the NWA World title in the Meadowlands, Jack Brisco, Angelo Mosca, Jimmy Valiant, Dick Slater, Carlos Colon, Dusty Rhodes, Harley Race, Ted DiBiase—you name bim, and he's in line for a chance to sign that contract.

"But I'm the best in the world, and that means I fight hard to stay on top, where I belong. And I'm so fired up for this match, I don't care who it's against. Because I'm looking past that match, I'm looking to that night when, with that IO pounds of gold successfully defended and safely in my possession, I hit the streets of New York, walk down Broadway, and celebrate like there hasn't been a celebration in New York in 20 years or more!

"I'm going to eat in the finest restaurants, visit the finest nightclubs, and turn the heads of the finest women, because New York hasn't seen anything until they've seen Ric Flair, Whooo! I'm going to own that town before long, I'm going to show them what class, style, and grace is all about. I'm gonna party hearty! You know, Pete, I haven't even been there yet and I can't wait to get back! Whooo?"

As our limousine continued to tour Atlanta, I couldn't help thinking how I've never seen Flair so enthusiastic. Our limousine ride took place in March, more than two months before his scheduled match in the Meadowlands, and his opponent wasn't even determined at the time.

But whomever that opponent happens to be. I feel safe in predicting that Flair's energy and intensity will make the match a classic—one that everyone will want to read about, and one that fans in the New York area will not want to miss.

TOMMY RICH

Most fans believed that after Rich was forced out of wrestling, he came back to wrestle in disguise as Mr. R. Ted DiBiaso, the man who illegally defeated Rich in their loser leave wrestling match, is held in a crossover headlock by Mr. R.

Southern region and not Georgia, where he actually lost the match that put him out of wrestling. I'll bet he really hadn't made up his mind until the next day in the commissioner's office. When the commissioner asked him for a decision, I'll bet Tommy was as surprised as anyone when he answered."

Tommy's answer: "If you can, break the contract."

it wasn't hard. Surprisingly, Ted DiBiase put up very little resistance. That made things much easier. When the NWA's lawyers approached the judge to void the contract, there was no lawyer for DiBiase to oppose it. As neither party wished to keep the contract in effect, the judge decided it was legally void. Tommy Rich could now wrestle anywhere and everywhere he chose.

Perhaps the least happy person in the courtroom was Tommy. He still wasn't sure he was doing the right thing. It isn't easy for an honorable man to accept that some situations have no totally honorable resolution. For the rest of his career, a small part of Tommy will wonder if he has any right to earn a living in the squared circle.

Afterward, he told reporters, "I have something to prove in every match. Each time I enter an arena, I have to earn the right to be there. I have to make people forget about me breaking this contract. I have to be doubly scientific and take on all challengers. I'm resuming my career for the fans. Whatever they want or need, I'll do. They're the only real reason I have for wrestling."

It wasn't a happy Tommy Rich who left the courtroom that day, but it was certainly a determined Tommy Rich. He has made the fans very happy. Now a much harder task confronts him. He has to make himself happy.
